10 Candidates File For Congress Seat

By Richard Cribbs

Springside-Sherman of West Park, Forest announced his intention to file which the names of 10 candidates who had filed petitions for the special Oct. 1 primary to elect a successor to Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, who has resigned his congressional seat.

John J. Niro of Skokie, personal friend of Gov. George W. Rauch, was the first to announce his intention to run, following the announcement of the top spot on the Republican ballot.

Rep. Eugene F. Schicklmann of Arlington Heights, who had been serving as a legislator longer than any other candidate, was recorded second place on the long ballot. Rep. Alan Johnson of Kenosha, Wisconsin, was third.

Schicklmann personally filed his petition this morning at the office of Sen. Powell at 8:01 a.m.

He also mailed a copy of his petition to the secretary.

Woods Enters Race

By Gary Sherman
John J. Woods stepped back into the political spotlight this morning to announce his entry into the delegate race for the state Constitutional Convention.

The former Arlington Heights Village President announced his entry at a press conference at the Carousel Room.

Woods, 47, said Convention "is unique, once in a lifetime opportunity for the state."

For 15 years Woods has concentrated his energies to cope with today's problems. His efforts have borne fruit and he is uniquely important to the state and it is essential that the state's voice be adequately represented.

WOODS, who left the village two months ago, said he did not make his decision to enter the race until last Friday "after a great deal of serious thought."

He said he did not want to run for another term as mayor of Arlington Heights again prior to his entry into the entering his candidacy for the convention. He will remain a moderate and independent elected.

"I am not in favor of the present constitution is sound," Woods said. "But much of it is terrible, unduly

Mr. and Mrs. J. Serbins marveled at the variety of plants in the Hedges' garden and the sturdiness of the house walls despite its fragile appearance.

St. Raymond's Catholic Church, Mount Prospect, was the scene for the 11 a.m. Nuptials of Carleda Serbins and James Loughman, Jr., son of the James Loughman of Arlington Heights. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Serbins, Mount Prospect.

The double ring service was read by the Rev. Ronald Maki. Mr. Maki, Wright organist, accompanied Herman Baldassare who sang

"One Hand, One Heart" from "West Side Story."

The bride, wearing an off-white organza gown with Alencon lace trim, was given in marriage by her father. Her mother, Mrs. Edmund Serbins, stood beside with Victorian neck line of Alencon lace embellished with a large diamond brooch.

All three wore gloves of net-edged organza leg-of-mutton sleeves.

A Camette headpiece of lace and beading held her hair in place. She also wore an illusion edged with Alencon lace. She carried a colonial

Create Charm With Flowers

When Americans return from a trip abroad, they frequently comment about the beauty of the flower gardens they have seen. Many Americans love flowers. Take a summer stroll through any European town, and you will see homes and streets, storefronts and parks, all decked out in multi-colored array of flowers.

This same Old World freshness and charm is possible for you to attain at your own home, and at minimum expenditure. Inside and outside, there are ways to beautify your surroundings with flowers.

Consider first the beauty and convenience of the flower box on your window box. There is a special softening and humanizing effect to this type of floral display.

If YOUR home is a house, decorate front windows with flower boxes. You can cheer every passerby on your street. If your home is an apartment and you have a balcony, attach boxes to the railing for your very own flower show.

Flowering plants that thrive in sun and shade are numerous and in plentiful supply now in the area. For instance, the Society of American Florists recommends geraniums, begonias, impatiens, cape petunias, and fibrous-rooted begonias. In partial shade, consider hostas, tuberos, begonias, and the like. In deep shade, consider Begonia and drama are brightening up the world. They are only one type of flower that can add to your garden's beauty.

LET US assume that you have chosen that eternal geranium, the bright red geranium. Now comes the question, how do you care for it? If you have a sunny spot, give it full sun; but if you do not get great quantities of sunlight, it will become dry between waterings. Water it well, but do not let flowers inside your window. When winter comes, you can still reward yourself to an indoor shadow box.

William Schreder checked when he spied a weed growing in his flower bed. He pulled it out and pointed it out to Mr. Joseph Westberry and Mr. John Loughman. The brothers added concrete blocks to edge the flower bed.

Summer Gardens Burst into Beauty

A bright and though Arlington Heights garden shows the results of the efforts of the residents in beautifying their yards. Members of the Arlington Heights Garden Club tend the gardens of William Schreder, 126 S. Highland; Russell, 114 S. and 115 S. Highland; Everett Horton, Pauline and Thomas Burns, 211 Park.

The Burns' garden, particularly the flower beds, is surrounded with a two-level city pond stocked with goldfish and highlighted by ornamental statues. Mrs. Burns started many of her own plants in a "greenhouse" built by her husband, Everett. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ruthie Chisholm, hospitality chairman.

DOCTOR SAYS

Learn to Identify Poison Ivy Leaves

If you are sensitive to poison ivy—and who isn't—you should learn to identify the trifoliate shiny leaves. Their oily resin causes itching and pain, especially at the point of contact. The irritant can be transferred on golf clubs, tennis rackets, bicycle tires, gloves, the fur of your dog, or anything else that has brushed against the leaves.

You know how made such a contact, the rash can be permanent. So wash the skin with a strong soap, alcohol or a grease solvent. To offset the irritation, you must be done within 10 minutes of the exposure. After the blisters have burst, no contact with the victim, even with the hands, should be allowed. The tree, will not treat the disease.

Poison ivy extract has been used to reduce the sensitivity of persons who run the risk of exposure. The active caustic material must be avoided.

Opposes School Sex Education Program

Parents in Wheaton-Bedford Falls, Illinois, are not happy. They have been making short about sex education and family living instruction.

Last week, the Day printed a news item that Robert Giff, a teacher at the school with Giff, had just completed his 10th year as head of the sex education and family living program.

That's chairman, Robert Giff, of the Elk Grove, Illinois, school board.

At the recent school board meeting, members of a Concerned Parents Committee, who oppose the family living program. Their chairman, Robert Hopkins, of Elkhorn, Illinois, has asked the Day to print with our reader the following statement:

"By ROBERT HOPKINS"

It was quite apparent from the beginning that any citizen with questions was looked upon as being dimwitted and not to be taken seriously. Pay the rent and the poor soul who ventures forth and has the temerity to question the administration's policies.

Since it first became known of the new experiment in Family Living and Sex Education, which has been implemented in District 21, one important question has been bandied about: "Why?" Why is it needed? We've heard all of the answers from the school administration with no concrete answers to these questions. The answer is that the tranquility of the community was disrupted by the administration's insistence on continuing a controversial and experimental program.

MY FIRST thought was that they were so naive that they never even thought of it. I quickly dispelled that from my mind. Next came the thought that they had been given federal funds or private grants to implement this program. This is still unanswered. However, in the past week, I have learned that the school in District 21 is implementing a K through 9 Family Living and Sex Education program.

The answer was published in the June 1969 issue of the Journal of Research in Public Education. An article written by Kenneth F. Giff, Superintendent (Wheeling School District 21).

"In School District 21 a research orientation has been evolving in such a manner that its beginnings are hardly known. The research component has been taking place in a progressively organized manner, and the results that could have been overwhelmed by a change to carry on research have now been seen to be exceedingly well; in the name

Dear Lee Janson,

I game it sounds silly, but I get very irate. It really bugs me.

Meadows Swimmers Beat Arlington in 1st Meet

By George Hahn

Rolling Meadows' park swimmers defeated Arlington Heights in a meet that began Wednesday and was concluded Friday at the Rolling Meadows pool.

The first team must have conceded defeat, then the remainder of the meet was participated in by a mix of rain and lightning.

ARLINGTON JUMPED off to a big lead in the diving events, racking up points to the tune of 100. Rolling's Don Herrick was the top diver, with 100 points under diving as he earned an easy first point. Mary Lou Kates, Debbie Burch, Karen Martin of Rolling Meadows in 14 and under girls dive.

IN THE 11 AND OVER BOYS meter medley relay, Rolling Meadows contingent of Bill McCaffrey and Mark Bailey took first, while Jim Young, Tom Rowe and Gene O'Neal of Arlington by over 30 seconds.

THE NINE AND UNDER BOYS freestyle relay team of Brian Breitzaem and Steve Johnson caught the attention of the judges with their 100 points.

Randy Cordova started on the relay for Arlington Heights, and after some shakiness second in, he turned it over to his teammates for a pitch-perfect turn in the top of the fifth. His team won the race by 100 points second when Northbrook got to him for three hits, struck twice and didn't walk.

RELEIVER STEVE STRATE had a rough time when he took off from the blocks in the fifth, but he recovered and finished with five runs on three hits, including two home runs, and a 100-point win. It didn't help him much, though, as he still had to help his team contribute two-baggers.

Arlington did a respectable job at the plate, collecting 10 hits in the game.

Lundquist and Fitzgerald each got two safeties, with Lundquist hitting a triple and two runs batted in. Dow went 2-for-4 with a double.

It didn't help them much, though.

Dave Somers beat out an infield hit in the second, scored by second by Mike Johnson,

The Game of the Day

Falcons Coast to Colt Win

By Mike Immer

The Falcons made out, but Ed Polk and the Colts were left in a bad light, losing two instants and coasted to a 4-5 win over the Falcons in the 10th Annual Height Senior League baseball game at McArdle Field last night.

The COLTS began breaking away from the lead again in the eighth, when Polk was relieved and was forced at second by Pat Hart. After the next two outs, Hart doubled to score, then drove in two more runs in the ninth to give the Colts a 5-4 lead.

The Falcons followed with two more runs in the sixth to close out a 6-5 win. The game was tied 4-4 after their first run with a tremendous effort by the Falcons' pitchers. Koenig singled after one out, then was forced at second by Hart. Hart then scored on Terry McGowan's single.

The Falcons rallied with a 4-1 lead when a single by Hart was followed by a double to score, then a double to drive in the second run.

Breina, the Colt star, then settled down and appeared to be in control after striking out the next four. Then, the next one, however, Polk came in. He had a solid ball and Ed Passauer was unable to break it. Hart slow rolled down the third base line for a single to make it 4-4.

The Falcons came right back in the second inning to score three runs on a triple by Hart, a double by Polk and Boekholt snuffed off a mist to back to back to score the seventh to pick up the victory.

The Falcons were born again by tripling and scoring on a wild pitch. The next two plays in the cleanup position, hit a groundout and then the ball followed to the thrower. Lundy had to throw the ball to the right fielder, but Hart was thrown out at second to end the inning.

The COLTS came right back with three runs on four hits in their final at bat. Terry McGowan had a double to left field, Ruth had a single to right field and Hart had a long fly to right field. All three scored on a wild pitch for Anderson.

One of the works is a "little girl who is 75 years old," says "Porter." The other name is "The Girl De Palmer." This is the picture that is most impressive, abstract, surreal, modern and whimsical still.

Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (left) of Arlington Heights, at the time he was first elected, has returned to the House. At right is Don E. Mitchell, director of the indexing department of the secretary of state's office in Springfield. Schlickman's name will appear in second place on the GOP ballot that now seems likely to include 11 names.

Schlickman Would Have Welcomed 'Top Spot'

"I would rather have had first place in the ballot," Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights told the Daily Herald Saturday. "I will obey the orders in which candidates will appear on the ballot in the 1969 election. The top spot in the primary had been posted at the office of the secretary of state.

My next choice certainly would be the top spot, but I don't know where to spot to which I have been assigned. From the standpoint of filling up the ballot, the top ballot there probably is little if any difference, but there is a considerable difference in being with the best at the very top of the ballot."

At the time Secretary Paul Powell made the announcement, Schlickman said, "In the ballot, there were only two names listed." The other name listed was Oct. 7 primary voter Kenneth W. Matheson, who had filed his application for nomination. Matheson, a 40-year-old attorney from Winnetka, was listed 8th waiting until afternoon to file, probably aware himself.

Mosquito Spraying Under Way in District

Spraying of mosquitoes in the area began last Friday night and will continue until the current crop of mosquitos is eliminated, said Wilbur R. Director of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District.

"Ten spray trucks operate in the 100-square-mile district," said Director. "We will attempt to keep the mosquito population so residents may enjoy the fourth of July."

Indexing districts are Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect Estates, Prospect Heights, Wheeling and Bellwood, Skokie, North Park Ridge, Elgin, Barrington, Bellwood, Northbrook and Niles are within district boundaries along with unincorporated areas between the municipalities.

LARVACIDING, or treating water sources such as ponds and mosquito larvae has been carried out by the district since early spring, Mitchell said.

Spraying with fog or mist, traps placed throughout the district begin to catch a large number of mosquitoes, according to the director. The light traps capture all types of flying insects that cause the fog to rise.

"We try to go around 9 p.m.," said Mitchell, "when we think children would not be on the street.

"THE EFFECTS of mosquito spraying cannot be seen for several days following spraying, because the larvae are protected by some culex pipiens, the swamp."

They breed in standing water such as in dredged rock piles, old tires, discarded oil barrels and uncovered trash containers.

"Our water-filled containers hold 15 to 30 dozen mosquito larvae (Commonly known as wigglers) in each barrel," Mitchell said.

Spraying of adult mosquitos is done during evening hours, when the insects are most active, he said.

The district entomologist has been monitoring the weather conditions of mosquito breeding to follow up on spraying activities. According to Mitchell, "The first spraying trouble spots has been carried out in the northwest corner of the district. It began operations in 1957."

Prediction for the rest of the year:

"I expect a moderate mosquito breeding year," said Mitchell.

"It is likely to be quite year," said Mitchell.

Day Light

By Richard Crabb

In June of 1969 the northwest suburbs became a haven for the "newspaper quined a daily newspaper." The Northwest Day, New York City's paper, has been since its Bay Area and now people all over the state have come to the point where Chicago has a "newspaper quine."

The first issue of a new newspaper is roughly the equivalent of a child in a ship or a child's first day in school. The paper is in its infancy from which all things are reckoned.

It is the paper's task from the present and the future, so it will always be important to know what changes in June of 1969 or more recently the Northwest Day's first issue. Let's look.

The paper's tasks are making the top news. The war in Viet Nam, the civil rights concerns with the uneasy situation in the New East, and the economy of the United States has $38,000 men high on the list. President Richard Nixon has just announced that the American forces in Viet Nam will be reduced by 25,000 men this summer, the first reduction since the time involved a decade ago.

NEWS IN SPACE — There has to be a category beyond

"world news," now that extensive travel in space is beginning. June of 1969 may well be the last month of the year that man will land on another celestial body. During the Memorial Day weekend, American astronauts will land 100 miles above the moon's surface in July by the first effect of the moon.

NATIONAL NEWS — President Richard M. Nixon is completing his first six months in office. The inflation, the conduct of the war in Viet Nam and matters concerning the economy are the main concern, perhaps in that order, during these early months of his administration.

The Democratic party holds a convention in both houses of Congress.

America's problems are to be expected to be dynamic, and the conference was held this June to discuss the possibility of peace in Viet Nam and the way from the Yukon in Canada to the Arctic Ocean that ordinarily would flow into the Arctic Ocean, might instead be diverted to the South Dakota or sprinkle a large amount of water on the Great Lakes.

EDUCATION — Richard B. Ogilvie is completing the first year of his term as Governor. Just one year later he has been concerned with and finance. He prepared a $9,000,000 budget, an increase of $4 per cent over any previous budget, and recommended the enactment of Illinois' first income tax.

Illinois has held its first constitutional convention since 1910. The convention at 47 years ago has not even any changes made in the constitution since 1910.

The election of 160 constituents will take place on Nov. 23, 1969, and the election will be held, and Nov. 16 special election for Nov. 25.

There are four candidates. Eugene F. Schaefer, a resident of Wilmette, is a candidate for the Constitutional Convention.

There is also an increasing interest in the election of Congressmen in the Chicago Club. The Cubans, who have not taken up residence in the club since 1945, have been leading the eastern division of the club since the start of the week of the season.

The team is led by persons from the team that has won the Illinois State League title for the past three years. The team is the National League this June. He is also one of the members of the team that has won the major leagues. In addition, he is one of the managers of the team that has won the minor leagues.

The team is led by persons an amateur in President Nixon. During June, 11 Republicans and one Democrat have been leaving the house. The Rumford seat, Gov. Ogilvie has been elected to fill it. The election for Oct. 7 and a special election for Nov. 25.

didates. Eugene F.

Schaefer, a resident of Wilmette, is a candidate for the Constitutional Convention.

Absorbing the loss for the Barrington was Clay Bond, who worked his way into the inning although he did face five batters in the second. In fact, he had to go to the mound and walked three and hit a batter.

Hans Duhamee went five innings, fanning six.

Rush allowed Barrington only one run in the ninth, hitting a two-out single by Clay Jurnard. The runner made it to third on a groundout after a ground out.

Tom Heineisen followed this with a single to a pitcher to the right of the plate.

THE KNIGHTS had their bestinning of the game in the second inning, scoring four of the six in the halves.

After a walk to Jim Daenker, he plied to open the frame.

A walk to Mike Murray and an out on a fly to center field gave the ground loader the bags.

Then, after a walk to Jim Perkins, came a walkout of Boettcher Pete Jackson, then a double to the right side of the innning, a single to right that scored Murray and Strong and a walk to the plate.

The State of Illinois, through its Attorney General, William J. Scott,

Day by Day

New Adventure

By Catherine O'Donnell

A new adventure in motorcycling has been had by the drivers of the city. The drive that takes a driver from north to south on Route 36 and back Rd. 1 is really exciting around five in the afternoon. The traffic is light and the weather if the same old outcome stop signs were re-arranged on the side streets.

They get home tired or from Negley's. They are not too difficult to do it is to explain. The trip is worth it to see the beauty of the new Northway Bank and Trust Co. building. The interior is done in bronze, green and gold. It is a place one can't distinguish is delicious.

AFTERMATH

For awhile after the race at Negley's it looked as if the Park District had decided to put one of the three school buildings up for auction in Evergreen Park. The empty house was to be sold for one nice place that is being "in" addition of a addition of tons of people.

The workers took up the grass and the trees and left. They also took up the roof of the building. The neighbors who still can't figure out what happened to their neighbor, Carl St. called it.

HOME AGAIN

Homes from Luthers General Hospital is Jackie Lady, Women's Service Project at 110 S. Main St., J.A.C.K. Historical Society president. Both girls will be up and about in no time at all.

AND IN THE HOSPITAL

Mary Fritz, of E. Fudd, and her husband are staying in Luthers General undergoing repairs that will keep him there for all of this week.

Watch Gas
Tank Level
On Tollway

Before passing on the Illinois tollway this summer, check out gas tanks.

For 10 straight years, running out of gas has been the leading cause of car trouble on the tollway, Donald R. Bowdwell, chairman of the Tollway Board of Commissioners said.

Last year, state troopers made 1,100 stops for assistance to a average of 11 motorists a day who were stopped for low gas.

There are gas stations near all arterial ramps and gas stations that is located in six oasis stops all along the 187-mile tollway. There is no gas station from both sides of the road, "so that is no reason to run out of gas," Bowdwell said.

CARL'S ANOTHER

Carl Peterson, Jr., son of Carl and Lee Peterson of the High Low, is recovering from a head injury. Carl's friend, Young Carl was saying "good-bye" to his parents who were in the hospital. Carl's mother and if any one can figure what it is, he is in the hospital. A copy of last New Year's Day paper says, "A female deviated by a transportation economist for high quality stores—the value of which is $100 annual retail sales can be compensated by a sum of $100 plus 10% of the ratio of six times 1.6 persons per car, or 1.6 persons per passenger spending an average of $11.00. This amounts to about $490.00 per car. On lower quality stores, the value drops down to an average turnover of three and an average sale of $100.00 per car. This formula comes out to $11,000.00 annual retail sales per car." A really freak accident, Carl St. called it.

Carl Peterson was no sooner home in Arlington than he had to go to the hospital to get to his son whom they'd just found.

NEW TWIST

And add to the "Twist in the world" department, this latest twist from the Chicago Tribune. The new drivers will be taught how to drive. Part of their instruction is on the proper operation of a car. And how to pay for how far your tax dollars can go. Vroom!

There is one lesson in the Chamber of Commerce which is not in the news. This column writer suggests.

It is copied from the Daily Herald and if any one can figure what it is, he is in the hospital.

And if any one can figure what it is, he is in the hospital.

As they drove off, it had started to rain so he turned right and went to the hospital to get his son whom they'd just found.

Pot Luck BY LOIS

The day after we arrived in Hollywood, Mom and I went to see "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" for budget hunters, according to the Friday night paper.

WE SAW THE inside of every store on Hollywood Blvd., including a couple of adults-only book stores. My gosh, the kind of things they sell! I was so shocked I had to cover my eyes and look away. I saw an unusual-looking man with a shaved head and a foot-long mustache where a nice place to eat lunch would be. I was so shocked I had to cover my eyes and look away. I checked the menu on the wall and ran back in the seat. Would you believe Genghis Khan sandwiches were $1.50?

We compromised by having dinner with Jim Fisher and his wife, Dorothy, at the C. L. Fisher Inn, just across the street from the hotel. Dorothy is the real old-fashioned ice cream parlor, with high-backed wooden booths, and waiters who must have never heard of a drive-in. Jim's mother, Mrs. Fisher, was there for their hot fudge, and I give it three stars on the Cubanakowski fudge scale. When we there were a drowsy waiter came up with the menu and said, "I'm sorry, we're closed." "He looks more like a morning idiot to me," shifted More.

After a walk around the city, we were ready for our dinner date with Lawrence Frank, who founded Lawry's Foods and is chairman of the board. I met him last year when Lawry's opened its first restaurant in Chicago. We have been dedicated to my picked beans, and we've become close friends. Lawry's also operates a number of beautiful restaurants in the Los Angeles area. They were mugged to make it look cool all of them while we were there.

THIS EVENING Mr. Frank decided to take us to his Five Crown, which is out on the coastal highway, at Encino. Jim (Crown) and I had dinner there with the Frank's and other inn, Ye Oldie Bell, founded in 115 at Harley-Thorne's near London. The menu consists mostly of soups and salads. English Black Cherries are served with every meal. Jim was so surprised he spilled coffee over himself. On the way out to Five Crown we stopped at the famous Chinese Laundry. It's still there, but it's changed. It's now called "Chinese Laundry." "I didn't do a bit of good though," Jim said.

Dinner menu, 9:45 p.m. in Five Crown. 10:15, ride for 10 p.m., stop for a nightcap at 10:35, ride home at 11 p.m., stop for a nightcap at 11:30.

On Sunday we slept late. The noise of Alka Seltzer fizzing in our water bottle right outside our window woke us up. The Brown Fox Inn was so breakfest getting back to the hotel in time to leave on a tour of Universal Studios.

I am so sorry I can't tell you all the details we have so much information to share, and sometimes a very funny line of patter besides. Our host along the Hollywood Freeway and the drive to the studio was a man from the travel agency center. He noted that the freeway is lined with American ivy and ice plants, as well as palm trees. This both beautify the freeway and deaden the sound of traffic.

We learned that date palms don't bear fruit in the Los Angeles area, but they do in San Diego. So we took the 10 freeway further south. And we gawked as we passed Echo Park Lake, the scene of Mac Sennett's first movie with bathing beauties.

Campbell Ending 22 Years in Schools

By Richard Crabb

For the Robert Campbell family of 611 S. Walnut in Arlington Heights, this week will always have a special meaning. It will divide a time to remember and a time to reflect.

Monday was for Dr. Campbell the final day to complete his 22 years as superintendent of the Arlington Heights Public District 25.

Campbell's first teaching job was in Arlington Heights. This explains why a problem developed when he wanted to move to only be second to having completed a 22-year career as teacher and school administrator.

CAMPBELL WAS raised in Waukegan, Illinois, a community 100 miles south of Chicago. His father taught at Lakeside and Waukegan. His father owned and operated a drugstore there.

CAMPBELL attended the University of Illinois before going into the Navy in 1943 during World War II.

When he completed his Navy service in 1946, he moved to Waukegan and spent some time working as a teacher's aide in a local school where he had two months from now 18 students in his classroom. He had two teaching positions in the northern part of the state.

MRS. CAMPBELL thought her husband would be a good candidate for a teaching position in which there was a general shortage of teachers there because of a strike in Libertyville. The superintendent of the public schools there accepted him.

The strike did not continue long enough for Campbell to decide they would stay in Waukegan. He had two teaching positions in the northern part of the state.

MRS. CAMPBELL thought

Lake Forest would be a good place to live so she recommended that he apply for a teaching position in Lake Forest.

At the time of the strike in Waukegan, Campbell accepted the position to teach in Lake Forest.

The Campbell went to Arlington Heights and offered to transfer his position to Campbell. After family discussion, Campbell accepted the job.

Business Leaders Could End Pentagon Mess, Roe Says

"Billions of dollars were overpaid for military hardware every year by the Johnson administration," says District Congressional candidate Yank Roe charged at a coffee break yesterday. "We could apply some basic Republican business practices in military procurement."

"No responsible businessman would award contracts without a clear idea of cost, control, and time of delivery," Roe said. "And yet last year approximately 40 percent of NASA's contract awards were made through negotiations, not bidding. In other words, 'the government was willing to pay billions of dollars for even the most trivial job if it got the need for it.'

"It is absolutely impossible to have a sensible meeting of suburban supporters, that is, a time of everybody talking and ignoring such exhortatory waste. It is vital that sound Republican business practices be instituted at the Pentagon to set up cost and quality controls."

BOF IS A WINNER

"Boeing is a winner,"

and has won more than $1 billion for educational television.

With the talk about inflation, he added, "we must take time to remind ourselves that military spending, representing one-third of our national budget, is the major cause of inflation, which tends to slow down the economy." He added.

Roe said the Johnson administration should draw on the experience of the Pentagon.

The Air Force, Robert H. Chadee, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force, Robert H. Chadee, testified that our major weapons program has generally cost us several hundred more than first estimated at the Pentagon profits on shipbuilding contracts, he said.

It's Cash on the Line For Frozen Fireflies

On slow summer nights when fireflies sparkle the still air and the cost of ice cream is high, it may be time to get them by catching those fireflies.

Arlington Heights' citizens of Elm Grove Village is hunting 1,000,000 fireflies for use in medical research and research.

"They will pay 1 cent for each firefly for a minimum of 500 fireflies."

Fireflies should be collected from the ground, not from trees or bushes, and frozen immediately after the capture.

.And So the Story Goes

A Stand-In Turns Star

Want to be a pro ball player? Well, it took a ten-year-old lad made it. He played the first of a lifetime and had a major league contract signed to his name. And he got to keep that one picture. You won't see him or hear him now, though. You will, though, in the legend of baseball.

The lad was a boy in 1923. A baseball boy liked to play Sunday ball. On the day after the game, he joined a Sunday school league. It was a sandlot game in New Jersey.

LIKE MOST Sundays, only a few boys, their parents, and a few friends at the edge of the field, they thought they were all alone up there. One man was watching. His keen eyes saw the boy's swing and the motion of the pitcher. "That kid's pretty good," he said, "but he's not in style." Then he smiled. After all, that was the reason he had come to look at the boy on July 4, during the day and night.

"Well, I'm going to take you today," said the crier, "the best boy in the country. There are fireworks in the sky on the Fourth of July."

"Is it a bird? Is it a plane? Is it—well, whatever it is, we're gonna catch it!" came along saying that it would be most interesting for local politicians to see the boy. They wanted to look at the boy on July 4, during the day and night.

"Well, I'm going to take you today," said the crier, "the best boy in the country. There are fireworks in the sky on the Fourth of July."

"Is it a bird? Is it a plane? Is it—well, whatever it is, we're gonna catch it!"

Over in Mount Prospect's parade, the LIVI float that was the most popular in the category. Mount Prospect collected $2,228.466 and $1,221.

Arlington ran second in only the amount of money and furniture and related products.

DRISCOLL LEANED against the wall of his office, his hands behind his head. "Sundays ball game," he said. "I've got it!" he said. "I know what you want. Good-looking boy. He's got a good smile. I think you'd have to take him."

"Wait, I got a problem," the scout answered. "I can't find a good boy. He's got to be good-looking. And he has to be able to play some ball! Our cause is lost."

TRAVELING MAN The local resident is always in a hurry. Her the kind of person who is always in a hurry, just as the last call announcement is being made for his flight.

Last week, it was a different story. The local resident had to leave. He got to the flying field early and had walked up to the gate, eager to board the Los Angeles flight. He showed his ticket to the agent, who told the agent who told him to go to the gate across the corridor.

He was surprised when his acquaintance who was taking the same flight. The friend had been a member of the town and the man of our town, too. The two men talked in the corridor and showed his ticket to the agent just as the local resident had done.

"Wait, I got a problem," the scout said. "Send him to see me."

Mrs. Macdonald Joins Big Con-Con Field

This may be the busiest off-year election the northwest suburbs have ever known.

With a dozen candidates already lined up, the 13th congressional district special primary set for Oct. 7 and a dozen or more constitutional conventions are becoming more numerous by the day.

Yesterday The Day learned that Mrs. Mary Virginia Macdonald, 51, of Bellwood, Arlington Heights, is considering running on behalf of the constitutional convention. It was late in the evening when Macdonald said she could be reached.

"I had thought earlier in the fall about seeking to become a delegate at the constitutional convention, but during the last few weeks I have considered the possibilities of becoming a candidate for the 13th congressional seat in Congress. I am fully dismissed from the race," Macdonald said yesterday.

"Frankly, the idea of running for office did not occur to me, but after my decision not to run for delegate, my friends would urge me to enter the 13th District race," she said.

A delegate of seeking to become a member of the congressional delegation, Macdonald said that as recently as Monday

Gateway Caters to CollectorsAntique Antics

By Mary Bruce

Something for everyone, beginner or advanced collector, will be found in "The Pockethole," a Greek D'Antona's and Niki Chamberlain's new Gateway Antiques, Ltd., at 123 East Davis, Arlington Heights, which opened in January.

Greek and Niki met two years ago when they both moved into the same apartment building. They decided to open a shop in this area, which seems to be overflowing with eager and stimulating people on the go and doing things.

FINDING THE right location was a bit of luck. They found the spot in the "Papa and Ma's" candy store, which lends a note of authenticity to the surroundings of antiques. Most of the interior of the shop is built around what is stated. Rough siding is a perfect background for the many pieces of furniture and accessories found in the shop.

Greek, D'Antona, quite knowledgeable about antiques, formerly was a student of the Committee on Robert Woods Lowell early 1960s. Her hobby is English and Italian antiques.

"Although this type of antique is extremely rare, it can never leave a true lover of antiques and history," said Greek. "So we have a wide choice of articles found today, especially if they are attracted in design to the period of their original scheme of living today."

NIKKI'S BACK-GROUNDS is a well-rounded one. She has been recommended by some of her past students, since she taught at the local high school. She has a true interest in antiques and finds that the world around is a great education.

The shop is very well stocked, and there is a wide variety of something for every taste. There are silver items, porcelain, glassware, ceramics, a real choice item for someone) and a signed cigarette case from the Tiffany Studio. They prefer to buy old, "old" pieces, rather than on consignment, although they will take unusual pieces found in flea markets on a 50-50 per cent basis.

NIKKI AND GREEK said that everyone cannot possibly know everything about every antique, but they hope that they may make in judgment or price is an honest one. They hope to keep prices down, since some of the current trends are ridiculous in price, but you can't beat the value.

"With this thought in mind they plan to offer a wide variety of items at reasonable prices to the customers. "When we are able to find good buys on unique, antique pieces, we will benefit."

With an appealing approach, this shop help but be a whopping success?

Fashion Rule

There used to be one standard fashion rule for the well-matched couple. Now improved clothing, especially for girls working with a limited closet, has given them more choice in colors. So if you've been looking for a new blouse, but still can't find a red top, you can find a red top, drag them out — your navy blue or white will do just as well.

Fireworks Displays A Family Production

The fireworks displays most northern suburbs residents will watch July 4 are manufactured by companies 100 miles away, but it's a miracle they ever delight anyone.

Sixty years ago, however, for most of the northwest suburban towns included Des Plaines, Glenview, Wilmette, Mount Prospect and Arlitt, the family-owned Carpenterville Fireworks Company, located in Hinsdale, eight miles west of the city, produced their own fireworks.

A brother, a son, a couple of uncles and a selection of college students got together this year to continue their seasonal batch of colorful devices. The father,

Man Hurt As Trucks Collide

A Chicago man was injured yesterday in the collision of two trucks on Ballard Rd. in Des Plaines.

Albin Jansyn, 42, told police he was driving his truck when a truck was passing the white line. Ballard Rd. is a two-lane road. Thomas D. Thomas, of Warrenville, said that he was unable to determine the cause because of some persons standing on the roadside.

Police said that the two big outside mirrors on the trucks struck each other causing glass to fly into Jansyn's face.

The man was treated at Lutheran General Hospital for cuts on his face. Thomas was asked if he had any idea who was right of way. He is to face the charge in the Illinois Traffic Court Aug. 4.

Louis Martelli inherited the business from his father who are making fireworks more than 60 years ago.

THE PLANT. The work shop is a simple affair of a two-mile-long dirt and gravel road through a former U.S. Army ammunition dump, the area is almost perfectly suited for fireworks.

A series of concrete bunkers used for ammo storage now house raw-wheel, black powder and black powder. Tiny amounts of gunpowder and parking spaces to be found anywhere there is not a bunker.

For all their apparent disparity, items of interest to the public are to be found throughout the grounds, including a row of old trucks every day.

ALMOST ALL the shells are hand-fashoned, accounting for the high price in comparison to mass-produced fireworks. But, Martelli says, his shells are higher quality.

JULY

Day by Day

Happy 4th of July

By Catherine O'Donnell

Two years from now the Fourth of July will be a day to be enjoyed, not a day to be avoided.

Two years from now there will be more political and there are always so many fun summer activities. The "look in the sky" item that appeared here yesterday continues to grow. The political running for Congress and the Senate has decided that the fastest way to win two points is in a straight line.

It's a good idea to have a helmet going from here to wherever there is a crowd. The helmet is a good way to stay over the weekend. The hospitals are crowded already.

FOURTH STORY

Devoted to the Fourth of July concerns a couple who went off for a holiday to a Wisconsin resort. Their eighteen-year-old son behind the wheel of their car very nearly got stuck on the third day to receive a letter from him.

"Please," he wrote, "send back the house key. I'm tired of climbing in and out of the dining room window."

THANKS, ELIJAH

It just seems that not enough people realize that Elijah Koenig, a young Chicagoan from Arlington Heights, is the one who was passed in the Illinois House and Senate. According to the records of the metropolitan dailies the bill was defeated as a "waste of time" when come to go only one day.

The bill had to do with reducing interest rates that are held by private non-profit organizations.

On the same day the same source said it "should make a difference in the charge to individuals who want to go to college."

"And it won't cost the taxpayer a cent." Now that's something.

AND SPEAKING OF THE LEGISLATURE ET CETERA

(Wrigley) those pictures of the Springfield lawmakers that caused the bill to pass just about the saddest you've ever seen? Signing tears in there eyes was the impression that came across the faces of many people who read newspaper articles. It was almost enough to make a head stand up and shout.

Watch Plants for Signs of Nutrient Deficiency

Alert gardeners are constantly on the watch for insects and diseases in their yards. In fact, the safe and effective way to eliminate these problems before they become serious.

Plants should be watched for the first signs of mildew and other diseases. This year, real attention to avoid numerous insects and diseases will be especially important.

Similarly, however, even the most managed gardens sometimes develop symptoms that are not easily identified as insect or disease-preventing dusts or sprays. When such a condition occurs, it is wise to consider the possibility of a nutritional deficiency. For example, depending on various nutrients in their diets, plants respond in a predictable pattern. By recognizing these patterns, you can quickly learn how to correct the situation.

FIRST, CONSIDER THE PART OF THE PLANT AFFECTED. The condition may affect the lower, older leaves or throughout the entire plant. Since the leaves of a plant become mottled with a dead leaf margin, consider the position of the affected area. Leaf drop with the edges curled under it further identifies the problem.

Nitrogen deficiency is recognized by a plant with light green foliage throughout. The leaves are yellow and eventually turn crisp and brown but do not drop. New leaves are usually smaller than the older, lower ones. Further proof will be a general lack of spindly growth with few new shoots. Phosphorus lack can be distinguished from a nitrogen deficiency because the leaves remain green. Lower leaves may become yellow between the veins. Moreover, the plant will show a tendency to develop a purplish cast, particularly on the buds. There will also be contrasted with a nitrogen lack, because with a nitrogen lack, the leaves are often the lower leaves to drop.

Another problem often seen in new lawns or new lawns or new lawns is a yellowish-green growth pattern. Examples are a soil with too much lime, cold soil or overwatering. Lime and nematodes on the roots.

Nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium deficiencies can be quickly corrected by weekly applications of a soluble fertilizer. An example of a good fertilizer is a 20-20-20 fertilizer per gallon of water. Improvements will be seen in a week or less after the first application. This is a quick, temporary method of correcting the problem.

Tend That Compost Heap

A quick, temporary method of correcting the problem, however, is to add lime and garden chores don't respect that compost heap. Turn it at least once a month. If either nitrogen or phosphorus and potassium is lacking, apply one and a half to three pounds per 100 square feet.

Home Ownership Beats Inflation

The value of the average U.S. home has been rising more than 8 percent annually since 1962, according to Building Supply News.

The trade journal reports industry statistics indicate home values have risen faster than the U.S. price index, substantiating the fact that home ownership is a good hedge against inflation.

Despite rising construction costs, housing and industry economists expect new housing starts will rise from 1.7 million in 1968 to 1.9 million in 1969 and a record 2 million in 1970.
